Happy Monday everyone! We hope you are enjoying the day off with your child and we look forward to seeing your little ones back with us tomorrow!!

The past few weeks have been full of rain but despite the dreary days, we have some “bright” news to share. Our swing install is finally finished!! Even in the rain, the kids have been enjoying this new addition to our playground. I’ve even caught a few parents having a swing. That’s awesome!! Thanks to those who helped wheelbarrow the playground chips into place. We still have a small pile to move so it’s still not too late to lend a helping hand. The rain has also allowed our stream to start flowing again. You’ll also notice that we’ve done some more blackberry clearing and planting. A huge thank you to the Fraser Valley Watersheds Coalition group for helping us with this work. We are going to continue with some site work into November and we’ll be watching to see if any fish reach our stream area this fall. We are always looking for volunteers to help with our “Forest & Stream” project, so please let me know if you would like to help out.

Finally, please see attached for our “This Week” bulletin. It’s always a pleasure chatting with you and sharing our school news!

Oh, one last thing Please take a look in your child’s backpack if you haven’t done so already. We’ve started our Home Reading Book Bag Program. A book bag was sent home on Thursday along with a notice about the program. Thank you Ms. Janet for sewing the bags and to our Reading Volunteer Group for getting the program started. Great job everyone and I hope you will enjoy some reading time with your child.

That’s all for now! All the best, Debbie.
